

Learning Management Systems 2008

Facts, Practical Analysis, Trends and Vendor Profiles

Josh Bersin, Principal Analyst

Chris Howard, Principal Analyst

Karen O'Leonard, Principal Analyst

June 2007

TABLE OF CONTENTS

About This Report	7
We Welcome Your Feedback	8
Executive Summary: A Dynamic Market	9
Market Growth	9
Expansion	11
Evolution	12
Management and Governance Remain Keys to Success	14
Looking Ahead to 2008	15
What Is a Learning Management System?	17
The Role of the LMS	17
The Bersin & Associates LMS Maturity Model®	18
Cost Justifying the LMS Investment	20
Basic LMS Features	21
Advanced Features	23
Analytics and Reporting	23
Analytics Versus Reporting	25
Analytics Technology	26
Performance and Talent Management	27
Recommendations on Talent Management Implementation	32
Competency-Based Learning	34
Collaboration, Webcasting and Knowledge Management	38
The Three Eras of e-Learning	38
Stage 1: Self-Study Courseware	38
Stage 2: Live e-Learning	38
Stage 3: Self-Published Collaboration	41
Recommendations	44

Integration with HR, Financial, CRM and Other Systems	44
Business Process Integration	47
Integration Frameworks	47
Portals	48
Customization and Configurability	49
Blended-Learning Program Management	51
Search	52
e-Learning Platforms	53
LCMS	55
The Best-of-Breed Approach	57
Traditional	59
Rapid	59
Collaborative	60
Enterprise	60
On-Demand	60
Collaborative Authoring Tools	61
LMS Implementation and Operations	62
LMS Implementation Models	62
Single, Companywide LMS	63
Companywide LMS, Plus Departmental LMSs	65
Departmental Only	67
Which Model Is Best?	68
Implementation Challenges	70
Customizations	71
Content Integration	72
Data Integration	73
Governance Challenges	75
Costs	76
The Use of Outsourced or On-Demand Solutions	78

LMS Report Card on Customer Satisfaction	83
Customer Service Is Key	83
Hosting Offers Some Advantages	84
Size Matters	85
Vendor Satisfaction and Loyalty	85
An Opportunity	87
The LMS Market: Size and Growth	88
Analysis of Customer Segments	89
Global Enterprise	92
Enterprise	93
Midmarket / Departmental	94
Federal Government and Military	96
Customer Buying Trends by Segment	97
LMS Vendor Overview	100
Vendor Revenues	100
License Versus Service Revenues	102
Size Versus Growth: Fastest Growing Vendors	104
Vendor Customer Bases	106
Vendor Focus Areas: Industry	107
Vendor Service Offerings	107
LMS Market Maps	109
What Is a Market Map?	109
Vendor Market Map	109
Product Focus: Learning and Collaboration	112
Product Focus: LCMS and Content Development	112
Product Focus: Performance and Talent Management	114
Appendix I: Top Industries by Vendor	116
Appendix II: Vendor Services	118

Appendix III: General Features	120
Appendix IV: LCMS Features	122
Appendix V: Performance Management Capabilities	124
Appendix VI: Vendor Profiles	126
American Research Institute (ARI)	128
Blackboard	131
Cornerstone OnDemand	135
Generation 21	138
GeoLearning	141
GeoMetrix	145
Gyrus	148
KnowledgePlanet	151
Learn.com	155
MediaDefined	158
Meridian KSI	161
NetDimensions	165
Oracle	169
OutStart	172
Plateau	176
RISC	180
Saba	183
SAP	187
SkillSoft	191
Softscape	194
SumTotal	197
Technomedia	201
TEDS	204

Vuepoint	207
WBT Systems	211
Appendix VII: Table of Figures	214
About Us	217
About This Research	217

About This Report

This report contains a detailed review of the learning management systems (LMS) market, including a discussion of market trends, profiles of the top vendors and our proprietary Market Maps® to help buyers understand the positioning of vendors.

The goal of this report is to help corporate training and HR managers understand the LMS market, identify key vendor solutions, and plan for a successful implementation and long-term rollout.

KEY POINT

We believe our role is to help you, the buyer, understand the strengths and weaknesses of different providers, so you can quickly determine the short list of solutions that best meet your company's needs.

This report has many resources to help you find the “short list” of LMS vendors that would best meet your company's needs. It does not, however, provide a ranking or rating of vendors. We believe our role is to help you, the buyer, understand the strengths and weaknesses of different providers, so you can quickly determine the short list of solutions that best meet your company's needs. From there, we strongly urge you to follow our seven-step methodology¹ to select the right system. This report will help you understand the market and the solution providers in detail, identify your key selection criteria, and benchmark your implementation.

Once you reach the point of selecting the top two to three vendors, you can also consult our *LMS Customer Satisfaction 2007*² report to see how well these vendors and their products perform in real customer implementations.

In addition, this report does not review every LMS vendor in the market. Rather, we have used our insight and market research to focus on the top players in the North American market – vendors that we feel are likely to be successful over the long term.

The information included in this report comes from a variety of sources, including interviews with corporate buyers, briefings with vendors and quantitative research. Sources are footnoted where appropriate.

¹ For more information, Selecting an LMS: What Works™? – Tips & Techniques, Bersin & Associates / Chris Howard, May 2003. Available to research members at www.elearningresearch.com.

² For more information, LMS Customer Satisfaction 2007: Industry Analysis of the Customer Experience with Learning Management Systems, Bersin & Associates / Karen O'Leonard, March 2007. Available to research members at www.elearningresearch.com or for purchase at www.bersin.com/lmssat.

We Welcome Your Feedback

On a personal note, we hope you find this report educational and valuable regardless of where you are in the LMS journey (and it is a journey). Learning management systems can be one of the most valuable and strategic tools in your corporate arsenal – or they can be an expensive and frustrating headache. Our goal is to make sure you see your LMS as the former and not the latter. As with all of our research, we welcome your comments and feedback at any time.

Josh Bersin, CEO

Bersin & Associates